

AGN-156A Salient

integrates the sodium light source and the polarimeter in one unit. It allows the user to read the circular scale directly without the need for the scale reading and calculation. The AGN-156A Salient polarimeter is an integrated polarimeter used for the measurement of optical rotation of the polarizable substances, active liquids. It is used for the measurement of the concentration and contents of substances. The polarizer produces plane polarized light which passes through the sample substance. The plane polarized light is then analyzed by the analyzer to the eye. The shadow field can be observed. The optical rotation is measured with a scale.

Integrated Lighting

System: is a complete system associated with the polarimeter. It has been eliminated. Polarimeter measurement of Optical Rotation of Specific Rotation of components are made. Aluminum and Stainless Steel and a long trouble-free life. with Integrated Lighting. Waveform Capture at least 4X Stabilization. Power line voltage : 220V. optical rotation : $\pm 180^\circ$. count : 0.050 . Magnifying glass : 4 times . Source of light : 5893A0 . Working power : 20 W
